About Bill and Sue Johnson

Bill, BBA '65, and Sue Johnson are strong community advocates and philanthropists. Over the years, the couple has given generously of their time and resources to support various non-profit organizations.

Bill and Sue have invested in two $1 million distinguished professorships to help the college recruit and retain world-class faculty. They have also invested $1.5 million to establish the Johnson Scholars program to support the college's study abroad initiative. All three of their daughters participated in international study abroad opportunities while at college; Bill and Sue deeply believe in the lessons of travel and cultural immersion.
